SOUTHERN DISTRICT OF NEW YORK

DERRICK POLITE,

Plaintiff,

-against-

VIP COMMUNITY SERVICES,

Defendant.

20-CV-7631 (LLS)

ORDER TO AMEND

LOUIS L. STANTON, United States District Judge:

Plaintiff, appearing pro se, brings this action under Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 (Title VII), alleging that his former employer discriminated and retaliated against him by not providing him with equal pay and by terminating his employment. By order dated October 2, 2020, the Court granted Plaintiff's request to proceed in forma pauperis (IFP). For the reasons set forth below, the Court grants Plaintiff leave to file an amended complaint within sixty days of the date of this order.

STANDARD OF REVIEW

The Court must dismiss an IFP complaint, or any portion of the complaint, that is frivolous or malicious, fails to state a claim on which relief may be granted, or seeks monetary relief from a defendant who is immune from such relief. 28 U.S.C. § 1915(e)(2)(B); see Livingston v. Adirondack Beverage Co., 141 F.3d 434, 437 (2d Cir. 1998). The Court must also dismiss a complaint when the Court lacks subject matter jurisdiction. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(h)(3).

While the law mandates dismissal on any of these grounds, the Court is obliged to construe pro se pleadings liberally, Harris v. Mills, 572 F.3d 66, 72 (2d Cir. 2009), and interpret them to raise the “strongest [claims] that they suggest,” Triestman v. Fed. Bureau of Prisons, 470 F.3d 471, 474 (2d Cir. 2006) (internal quotation marks and citations omitted) (emphasis in original). But the “special solicitude” in pro se cases, id. at 475 (citation omitted), has its limits – to state a claim, pro se pleadings still must comply with Rule 8 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, which requires a complaint to make a short and plain statement showing that the pleader is entitled to relief.

The Supreme Court has held that under Rule 8, a complaint must include enough facts to state a claim for relief “that is plausible on its face.” Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 570 (2007). A claim is facially plausible if the plaintiff pleads enough factual detail to allow the Court to draw the inference that the defendant is liable for the alleged misconduct. In reviewing the complaint, the Court must accept all well-pleaded factual allegations as true. Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 678-79 (2009). But it does not have to accept as true “[t]hreadbare recitals of the elements of a cause of action,” which are essentially just legal conclusions. Twombly, 550 U.S. at 555. After separating legal conclusions from well-pleaded factual allegations, the Court must determine whether those facts make it plausible – not merely possible – that the pleader is entitled to relief. Id.

BACKGROUND

Plaintiff brings this employment discrimination action against his former employer, the VIP Community Services (VIP) located in the Bronx. The complaint is not a model of clarity, but Plaintiff asserts that he is bringing claims under Title VII for VIP’s failure to provide him with equal pay and retaliation against him. (See ECF No. 2, at 2.) He provides the following statement as the facts in support of his case:

During my initial complaint I failed to provide the witness to the event which lead VIP to terminate my employment. It was recommended, I submit this claim in efforts to honor the request of my retroactive pay along with my reasons for termination. Lastly, along with the age difference of the previous Clinical Director there was no reason to decrease my pay, especially with both parties having the same credentiaally. In closing, under the Ryan White program all parties were paid according to the salary aside from me.

(Id. at 5.)

Plaintiff also attaches to the complaint a letter addressed to the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) in which he asserts additional facts. He states in the letter that he was employed by VIP as the Clinical Director of the Ryan White Program and that his employment was terminated after he reported a coworker's inappropriate touching of two staff members, and another coworker's calling of staff members by racist and other derogatory names. (See id. at 11-12.) Plaintiff also asserts that he was subjected to age discrimination because the former Clinical Director, who was younger, was paid more than him.

DISCUSSION

A. Claims under Title VII and the ADEA

Plaintiff brings claims under Title VII, and his assertions that he was subjected to age discrimination suggest a claim under the Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967 (ADEA), 29 U.S.C. §§ 621-634. Title VII provides that “[i]t shall be an unlawful employment practice for an employer . . . to fail or refuse to hire or to discharge any individual, or otherwise to discriminate against any individual with respect to his compensation, terms, conditions, or privileges of employment, because of such individual’s race, color, religion, sex or national origin.” 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-2(a). Similarly, the ADEA makes it unlawful for an employer to “discharge any individual or otherwise discriminate against any individual with respect to his compensation, terms, conditions, or privileges of employment, because of such individual’s age.” 29 U.S.C. § 623(a). These antidiscrimination provisions prohibit employers from mistreating an individual because of the individual’s protected characteristics, Patane v. Clark, 508 F.3d 106, 112 (2d Cir. 2007), or retaliating against an employee who has opposed any practice made unlawful by those statutes, see Crawford v. Metro. Gov't, 555 U.S. 271, 276 (2009) (holding that conduct is protected when it “confront[s],” “resist[s],” or “withstand[s]” unlawful actions).

Mistreatment at work that occurs for a reason other than an employee's protected characteristic or opposition to unlawful conduct is not actionable under these federal antidiscrimination statutes. See Chukwuka v. City of New York, 513 F. App'x 34, 36 (2d Cir. 2013) (quoting Brown v. Henderson, 257 F.3d 246, 252 (2d Cir. 2001)). To state a claim for employment discrimination, “a plaintiff must plausibly allege that (1) the employer took adverse employment action against him, and (2) his race, color, religion, sex, [] national origin [or other impermissible factor] was a motivating factor in the employment decision.” Vega v. Hempstead Union Free Sch. Dist., 801 F.3d 72, 86 (2d Cir. 2015). The plaintiff “may do so by alleging facts that directly show discrimination or facts that indirectly show discrimination by giving rise to a plausible inference of discrimination.” Id. at 87. It is not enough for a plaintiff to say, for example, “I am black and these bad things happened to me at work”; he must allege facts from which a reasonable trier of facts could infer that the reason these things happened to him was because of his race. Similarly, even if a plaintiff meets the age criteria for an ADEA claim – forty or older – he must allege facts suggesting that the alleged adverse acts occurred because of his age.

Even read as leniently as possible, Plaintiff fails to allege facts suggesting that his employer discriminated and retaliated against him based on the factors prohibited by Title VII and the ADEA. In fact, nowhere in the complaint does he identify his race, color, religion, national origin, or age. Plaintiff does not allege any facts suggesting a plausible Title VII or ADEA claim – that Defendant discriminated and retaliated against him based on his race, color, sex, religion, national origin, or age.

Because the Court cannot say at this stage that an amendment would be futile, the Court grants Plaintiff sixty-days' leave to submit an amended complaint. See Hill v. Curcione, 657 F.3d 116, 123–24 (2d Cir. 2011). Should he choose to amend his complaint, he must allege facts suggesting that Defendant took adverse employment action against him in violation of Title VII or the ADEA.

B. Application for Pro Bono Counsel

Plaintiff also submits an application for the court to request pro bono counsel. The factors to be considered in ruling on an indigent litigant’s request for counsel include the merits of the case, Plaintiff’s efforts to obtain a lawyer, and Plaintiff’s ability to gather the facts and present the case if unassisted by counsel. See Cooper v. A. Sargent Co., 877 F.2d 170, 172 (2d Cir. 1989); Hodge v. Police Officers, 802 F.2d 58, 60-62 (2d Cir. 1986). Of these, the merits are “[t]he factor which command[s] the most attention.” Cooper, 877 F.2d at 172. Because it is too early in the proceedings for the Court to assess the merits of the action, Plaintiff’s motion for counsel is denied without prejudice to renewal at a later date.

LEAVE TO AMEND

Plaintiff is granted leave to amend his complaint to detail his Title VII and ADEA claims. In the statement of claim, Plaintiff must provide a short and plain statement of the relevant facts supporting each claim against each defendant named in the amended complaint. Plaintiff is also directed to provide the addresses for any named defendants. To the greatest extent possible, Plaintiff’s amended complaint must:

- a) give the names and titles of all relevant persons;
- b) describe all relevant events, stating the facts that support Plaintiff’s case including what each defendant did or failed to do;
- c) give the dates and times of each relevant event or, if not known, the approximate date and time of each relevant event;
- d) give the location where each relevant event occurred;

- e) describe how each defendant's acts or omissions violated Plaintiff's rights and describe the injuries Plaintiff suffered; and
- f) state what relief Plaintiff seeks from the Court, such as money damages, injunctive relief, or declaratory relief.

Essentially, the body of Plaintiff's amended complaint must tell the Court: who violated his federally protected rights; what facts show that his federally protected rights were violated; when such violation occurred; where such violation occurred; and why Plaintiff is entitled to relief. Because Plaintiff's amended complaint will completely replace, not supplement, the original complaint, any facts or claims that Plaintiff wishes to maintain must be included in the amended complaint.

CONCLUSION

The Clerk of Court is directed to mail a copy of this order to Plaintiff and note service on the docket. Plaintiff is granted leave to file an amended complaint that complies with the standards set forth above. Plaintiff must submit the amended complaint to this Court's Pro Se Intake Unit within sixty days of the date of this order, caption the document as an "Amended Complaint," and label the document with docket number 20-CV-7631 (LLS). An Amended Complaint for Employment Discrimination form is attached to this order. No summons will issue at this time. If Plaintiff fails to comply within the time allowed, and he cannot show good cause to excuse such failure, the complaint will be dismissed for failure to state a claim upon which relief may be granted.

Plaintiff's application for counsel (ECF No. 4) is denied without prejudice to renewal at a later date. All other pending matters are terminated.

SO ORDERED.
